

Acropolis of Athens

Guide for a visit

A guide to the Acropolis of Athens for visitors on the autism spectrum

This is the archaeological site of Acropolis.
We can visit the site.

There are rules in the archaeological site:

- ✓ I look at the monuments from a distance without touching.
This way everything is safe.
- ✓ During the visit I stay close to those who accompany me.
- ✓ I walk slowly and I am careful with my movements.
- ✓ I speak in a low voice. I can also use my inner voice.

I remember the rules so everyone is happy!

Information
about the area

During my visit I might see:

Ropes indicating route boundaries

Restoration
works in progress

Animals

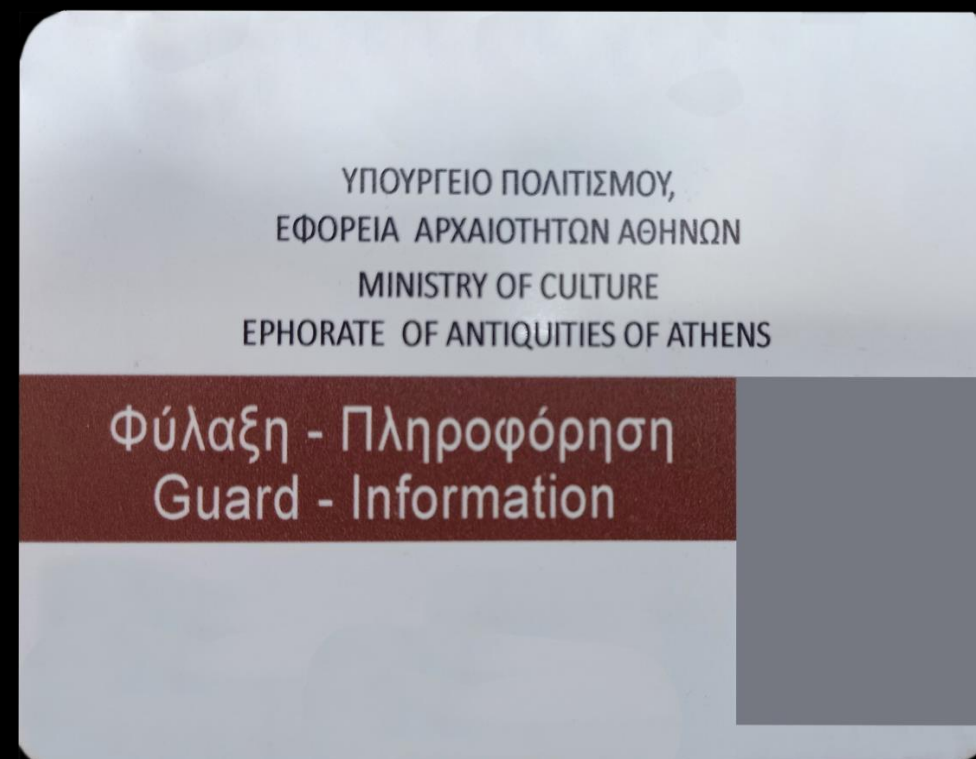

There are toilets, water-taps and water vending machines on site.

If I get tired, I can sit on benches.
There are also other kind of seats around the site.

If I face mobility difficulties during my visit,
I can ask the staff for help.

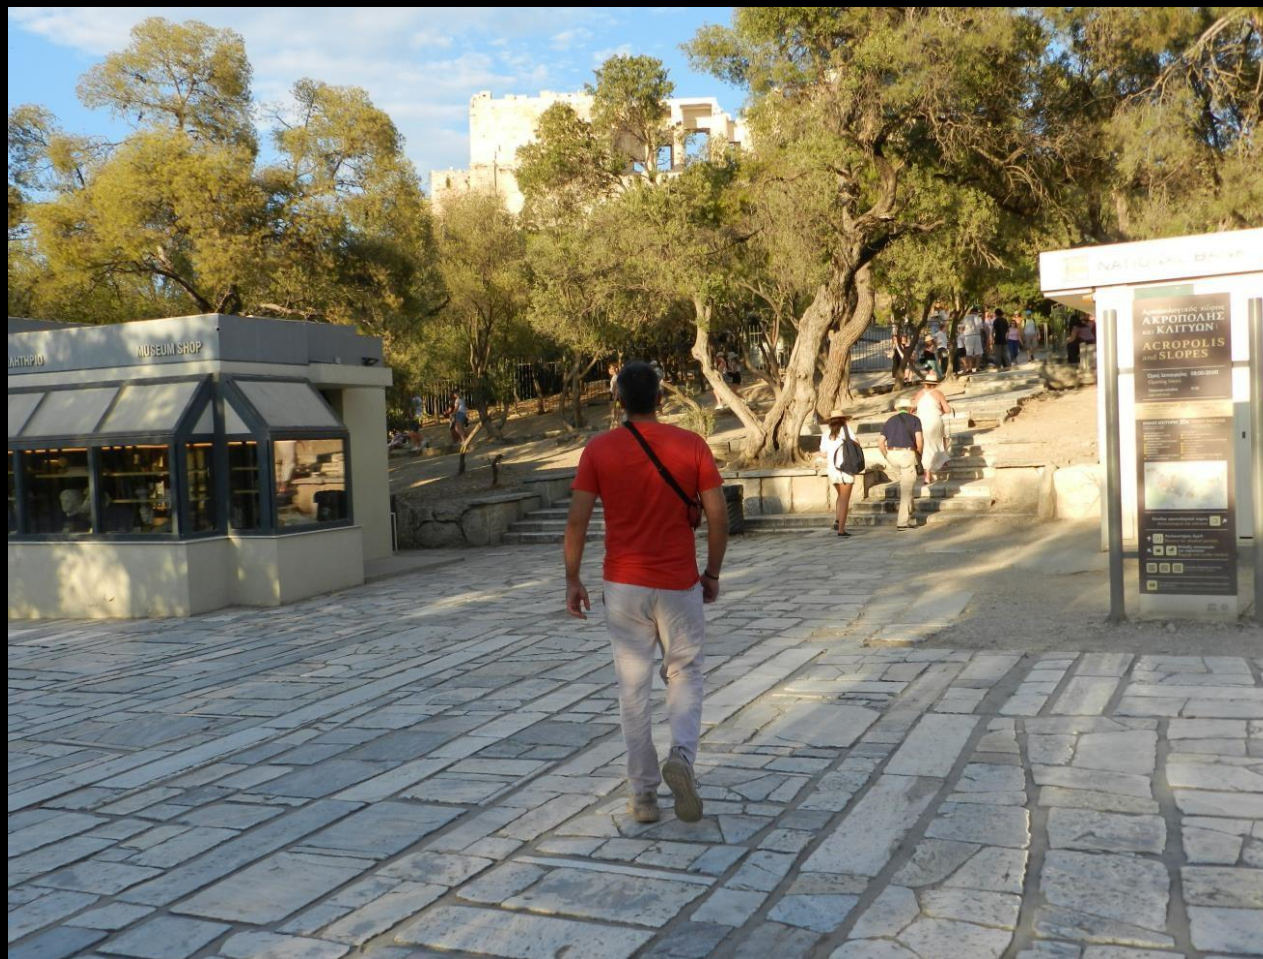

The people of the archaeological site wear name cards.
If I need help, I can ask for their assistance.

The ticket office is in the entrance of the archaeological site.
That's where I can buy my ticket. I might need to stay in queue.

I can also buy my ticket online.
I collect my ticket from the ticket office.

I start my visit.

I am going through ticket control.

Starting my route, on my right,
I see from the top the Odeon of Herodes Atticus.

Going up, I see the Propylaea.
I am walking carefully to avoid slipping.

Passing the Propylaea, I see the Parthenon in front of me.

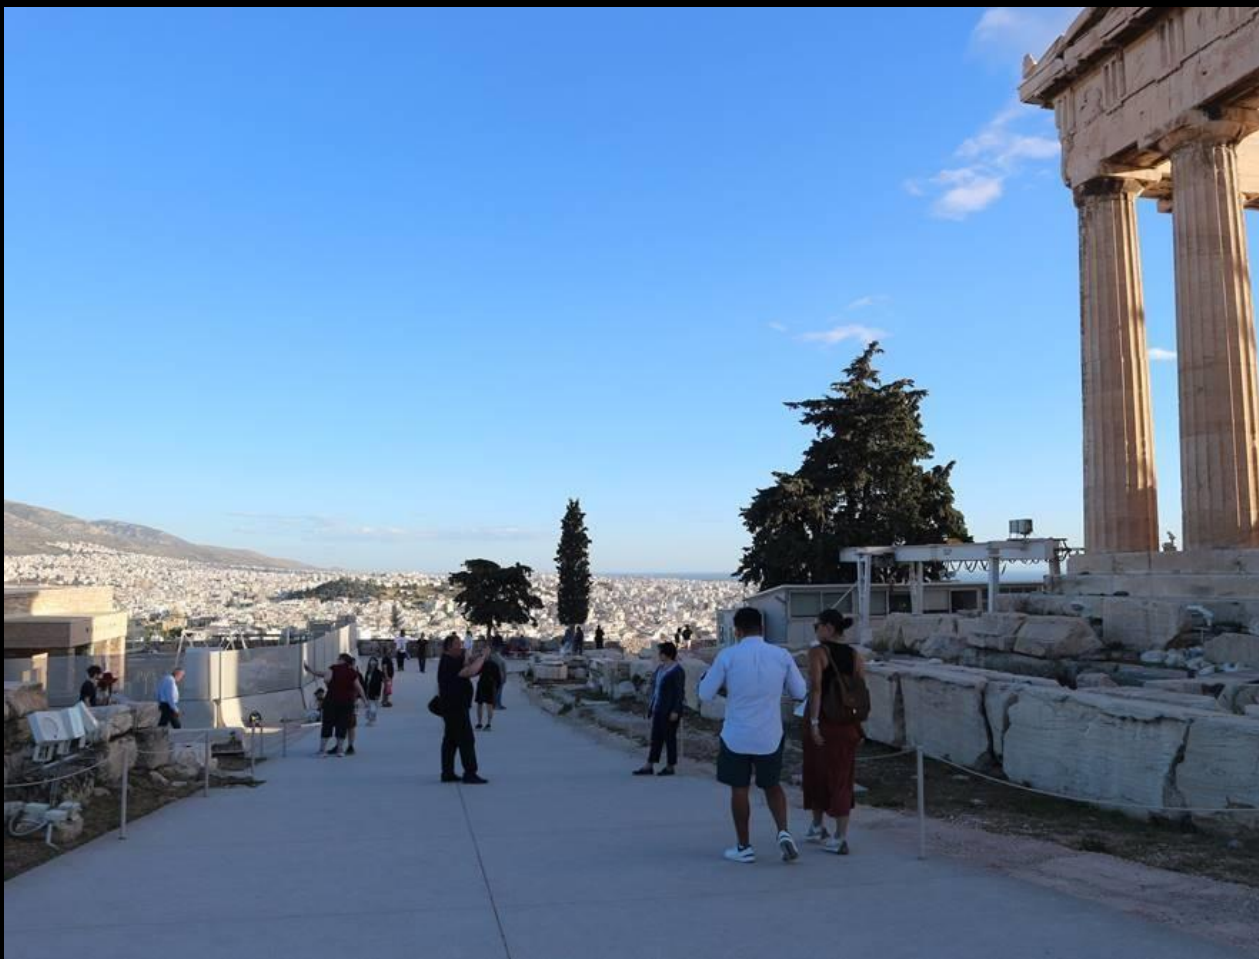

On my left, I see the Erechtheion and the Caryatids.
I can walk up and observe it closely.

I am walking by the Parthenon, towards the pole with the Greek flag.

I am in front of the Greek flag.
I can walk up to see the view of Athens from above.

Coming back, I head towards the Parthenon.
I continue my route.

Moving on, I see the Parthenon on my right.

I head towards the Propylaea, in order to reach the exit.

I walk carefully down the slippery stairs.
The banisters direct my path.

It's time for me to go!
I need to make sure I have all my belongings with me.

After the exit is the museum shop.
Once I finish my visit, I can buy gifts for my family and friends.

Opposite the ticket office is the refreshment area.
If I want, I can have a drink or something to eat.

Goodbye Acropolis!

I hope to visit you again and learn more about Ancient Greece!
